

Notes

- we are unclear about the library ownership and lending process of digital media, and are acting on the assumption that each digital media book has a number of "digital access codes" it lends out for the duration of the lending period, which the borrower loses access to when the period is over.